JOHNSON FAMILY TROUBLES

MRS. ELI JOHNSON SUING FOR A DIVORCE A SEQUEL TO THE JOHNSON-HIGLEY SUIT-MR. JOHNSON'S RELATIONS WITH MRS. COVERT.

JOHNSON'S RELATIONS WITH MRS. COVERT.

Public interest was again aroused yesterday in the affairs of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Johnson, the well-known temperance advocates in Brooklyn. Mr. Johnson recently began a sunt to recever $100.000, as damages for the alienation of his wife's affections, against Henry A. Higley, a member of Plymouth Church and a produce broker in this city. A suit for an absolute divorce has just been begun by Mrs. Johnson against her nushaut. Mrs. Johnson was formerly president of the First Brooklyn Womans' Christian Temperance Union, and was prominent in temperance work in that city for nine years. The divorce suit is brought in her behalf in the Brooklyn City Court. The summons and complaint served upon the defendant are dated July 25. Mrs. Johnson makes affidavit that she and her husband were married in March, 1852; that between August 1, 1881, and October 1, 1881, at the Long Point House at Lake Conesus. N. Y., and in the grove near the hotel, the defendant committed adultery with Elvena Aunis; that the defendant was criminally intimate with other women in the same months and at the same place; that the plaintiff has not forgiven or condoned the offence, and demands that the bonds of marriage between her and her husband be dissolved.

The correspondent, Elvena Annis, is now Mrs. E. B. Covert, of Honeoye Falls, N. Y. The following letters which have recently passed between her and Mr. Johnson in regard to the case will be produced at the trial of the cause. On June 11, Mrs. Covert wrote as follows to Mr. Johnson:

HONEOYE FALLS, MONNOG CO., N.Y., June 11, 1883.

HONEOTE FALLS, MONROE CO., N.Y., June 11, 1883.

MR. JOHNSON: In all probability you have forgotten my name, but perhaps not our acquaintance at Conesus Lake, in the early tail of 1881. Changes take place in the lives of us all; in none more than mine. Since I saw you my dear mother has gone to her reward, and last Angust I was married. About a week since a paper was presented to me to cain my signature, sent to me by your wife's attorneys, and to the effect that we had intercourse of a criminal nature at the lake; also that I had received several letters frem you. Of course, I would sign my name to no suca document, and gave it back to the bearers. After the parties had gone we got to thuking that they might sign that for me and send it on to Brookiyu, as they seemed very auxious, offering me $100 it I would sign it, but I had no use for their money. Now, if any such paper comes to light at the trial with my signature it will be a forgery, and I want you to stop it from coming before the public, and I will deal out the full measure of the law to any one that would dare do ench a thing, if they could be found. If anything comes up to especially interest me, please let me know. I will direct this from an article in our Union telling your whereabouts. Yours respectfully,

Mrs. Elyena B. Covert. HONEOYE FALLS, MONROE Co., N. June 11, 1883

BROOKLYN, June 12, 1883.

Mrs. Elvena B. Coverl.

Diam Madami: I can never tell you how glad I am for your letter; glad, first, because it tells me you nave kept your promise made to me by returning to your mother and becoming a dutiful daughter. I stail not second, because you tell me you are married, and I trust happiny so. May Got bless you and your home. Glad, third, because it tells me with what scoonderism I am contending. In all my conversation and writing with the Conceaus Lake: temperance people, I have ever declared that there was no criminal intercourse between us. that toe hotel proprietor at Conceaus Lake having failed to prevent me from lecturing on Sunday, he best planned the boat scheme. This toe having failed, he attempted to send us out in the same carriage to the train (oy keeping you three or four days over your time), in which case he would have said that we went away in a carriage together. In this, too, he was faoled by my ordering a carriage for myself when there was only just time for me to reach the train and not time for you to pack your clothing, etc. Now, to meet the case here in any shape that it may take I need to have the above facts written out in your own language and handwriting. And don't fail to assert what is a fact, that we never passed a line nor a letter of correspondence until this voluntary letter of yours dated June 11, 1883. Please also say that it was tarong a my persuading that you were induced to return to your mother. With such statements from you and my own testimony, my attorneys will be able to meet and settle any assertions they may produce. Again thanking you for your kind and valuable letter, believe me very traily your.

Mrs. Covert subsequently wrote the following fomewhat remarkable leater in reply:

Honeote Falls, N. Y., July 6, 1883.

Mr. Johnson—Dran Shr. No doubt you wonder greatly at my strange stence, but on returning from a visit East to my sisters found your letters awaiting me. My bushand would have for warded tiem to me, but he expected me nome every day and he thought it would not be worth white. I have solved it all out how my name came to be connected with yours at all. Perhaps you recollect my tealing you of a friend I had in Livonia, and I suppose he has been working up this scheme against me to pay me for getting married and leaving him. In fact I said as much to a lawyer from his place, and a Mr. Kingsbury, formerly of Livonia and now of Brooklyn, who called on me in behalf of Mrs. Johnson, and they seemed to understand his plan and motives. Probably he thought by take means to add a little more filtay incre to his slim store. But I told these gentlements as fact I could not say anything else—that he my saort acquaintance with you and in your conversation you ever showed yourself a true gentleman, and by your example and advice I felt to aspire to nobler alms in life, and when I heard of your trouoles I was very much surprised, for I supposed you were settled in life happily; at least I should judge so from what I heard you say; but I was still mere sorprised to find my hame was mixed up in this affair, for I was perfectly innocent of the bag any harm in my taking with you. What do you take the many to a find my hame was mixed up in this affair, for I was perfectly innocent of the bag any harm in my taking with you. What do you sarely would not expect me to take my time writing a that job on you? Now, I would be glad to some anise. Hopping the right will prevail, I close, yours, very respectfully.

MES ELVENA B. COVERT.

Mrs. Covert was employed as a waitress in the Long Point Hotel at the time Mr. Johnson stayed there in 1881. Her name was then Mrs. Annis, but her husband, a farmer of the vicinity, had secured a divorce from her. Mr. Johnson made her acquantance and seemed fond of her company, going out upon the lake in a boat with her and walking in the woods near the hotel. His association with her was regarded as a scandal by the temperance people, with whom he was at work in a temperance camp-meeting garded as a scandal by the temperance people, with whom he was at work in a temperance camp-meeting, and they, it is said, turned a cold shoulder upon him, and finally told him that his services were no longer needed. Mrs. Annis was married last year to a man named Covert, a laborer in a mill. She was the daughter of a respectable family, and was a refined and well-educated woman.

The Mr. Kingsbury referred to in her letter is H. D. Kingsbury, of No. 84 Joralemonsts., Brooklyn. He refused last evening to say any thing about the matter before the trial of the sait, in which he expects to be called upon to testify.

upon to testify.

Mr. Johnson said that the accusation against him Mr. Johnson said that the account of a conspiracy was utterly false. It was the result of a conspiracy against him, he said, and the attempt to bribe Mrs. Covert showed this. He had given her some good advice when she was in trouble, and as a result he was misrepresented.

FUNERAL OF A CENTENARIAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Swan, who died at her house, No. 20 Macdongal-st., on Monday afternoon at the age of 100 years and six months, took place yesterday at the house. The services were attended by a large number of the friends and relatives of Mrs. Swan. The only floral decorations were a large sheaf of wheat and a sickle of cut flowers. The services were conducted by the Rev. S. M. Hamilton, pastor of the Scotch Presbyterian Church in West Fourteenth-st. He was assisted by the Rev. Dr. John Hail and by the Rev. E. N. White, pastor of the Iwenty-third Street Presbyterian Church. Dr. Haif delivered a short address and Mr. Hamilton read a long letter which Mrs. Swan had received on her last outhday from the Rev. Dr. Thompson, who for many years was her pastor in the old Crosby Street Presbyterian Church. Dr. Thompson, has lived in Scotland for a number of years. The bur.al took place in Trinity Cemetery. Mrs. Swan was born near Newry, Ireland, in 1782, and came to this country more than eighty years ago. She lived for several years on Staten Island, and alterward occupied houses in Peari-st, at Mott and Bayard six, and in Mercerst, before making her bome in the Macdongal-st. house. The houses which she owned with her husband at Mott and Bayard six, in one of which they lived, are still stan ling, and belong to Mrs. Swan's estate. Her husband died twenty-six years ago, leaving a large fortune. Mrs. Swan has had the use of the income of the estate, and has spent most of it in contributing to messionary work. She look great pleasure in this work, especially in Ireland. Mrs. Swan's mind was clear to the last, and although she had been confined to her room for some time, her friends expected her to linger on in her peaceful old age for many months, and possibly for years. Death came suddenly but painlessly.

A communication was received from the Police Board asking for the transfer of $8,000, an unexpended balance of the appropriation for that Department for the year 1880, to the appropriation for the present year.

President Asten, of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, opposed the transfer. He said: "Last year the Police Board increased the patrol force without the consent of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and asked for a larger appropriation still further to increase the force this year. Mayor Grace asked if there were not men detailed from the regular force who could be made to serve on patrol duty and thus save the city the expense of increasing the force. There are only four day posts and eight night posts in the precinct, and half the patroinen on duty will be mounted. Beside the captain, there are two sergeants, three roundsmen, eight foot patroinen, fourteen mounted patrolinen (six of whom will patrol the drives in the daytime below the Harlem River), two doormen and one stableman. At 9:46 a. in. Captain SeCullagh sent a call for an ambulance to remove Charles Deer, of One-hundred-and-forty-eighth-st, and Willis-ave, who had been taken sick suddenly at Highbridge, to the Ninety-ninth Street Hospital. One of the reasons for establishing the Second Precenct was to secure more prompt attention to sick or injured persons at that prace. Heretofore calls for the ambulance to go to Highbridge have been sent from the Morrisania town hall, the station of the Thirty-third Precinct. It was believed also that property and bif-would be protected better at Highbridge if a police station were established there.

EXPERIMENTING WITH THE DESTROYER.

The torpedo boat Destroyer, built by the elder Ericason, the inventor of the monitor, was taken from the Brewery Dock at Tompkinswile, S. I., on Wednesday. She steamed to the Horsesboe, near Sandy Hook, and shortly after went outside. Further preliminary tests were made of the utility of her torpedoes. There was a strong sweil on, but not enough choppy seas to materially interfere with the tests. The dummy torpedo used for deep scalifring consisted of a piece of wood about twenty feet long, divided into two differently made sections. The point, about five leet long and one toot in diameter, was shaped like a minie bail; the back piece, about fifteen feet long, having four riveted from flanges fastened lengthwise to it. The flanges are for the purpose of causing the torpeto to revoive and keep on a straight course. The tests were made by firing at a target, which consisted of a wide net that was dropped into the sea one hundred yards from the Destroyer. The marksman easily sighted and hit it at every attempt. The ooal's power to move about was a size tested, and she was between the.

HOW DEMOCRATS PLAY BASEBALL.

The Democratic Executive Committees of Essex and Hudson Counties held what was called a social gathering in Caledonian Park, Newark, yesterray afternoon. The feature of the occasion was a baseball game between young men who were supposed to represent the two committees. The assembly, which was large, emoraced nearly all the leaders of the party in the two committees. No candidate for which was large, emoraced nearly all the leaders of the party in the two counties. No candidate for office was missing. A drew Albright, of Newark, who is willing to be the successor of Governor Ludlow, was conspictions in a stylish barouche. Surrogate Zulick, who is also named for Governor, Gottfried Krueger, Edward F. Mc-Donald, Judge Davis and Congressmen Fielder and McAdoo were among those on the ground. The game was uninteresting, and after two innings had been played the political situation in New-Jersey was the theme of conversation among the older men.

YOUNG MATTHEWS'S FATAL SHOT.

NO REASON FOR TAKING HIS LIFE KNOWN. HIS RELATIVES THINK THAT HE BECAME SUDDENLY INSANE.

The body of Frederick Matthews, who ended his life by his own hand on Wednesday, lay yesterday in his room in the picturesque home of the Mat-thews family, at the foot of East Seventy-fifth-st. thews family, at the foot of East Seventy-hitu-st. The various members of the family, including George Matthews, the cousin and partner of the deceased man, were present throughout the day, as was also Miss Fields, to whom young Matthews was to be married in September. Miss Emily Matthews, the consin who lived in the house with Frederick, looked pale and worn out by grief and fatigue. In the course of a conversation with a TRIBUNE reporter she said t porter she said:

"There was nothing at all unnsual in Frederick's behavior on Tuesday night. He came and said good-night to me about 10 o'clock and asked me if I were coming up soon myself. I replied in the affirmative and he retired immediately, nothing more being heard of him. About 8 o'clock next morning the maid went up and knocked at his door. He was to have left the house at 7 o'clock, and as she received no answer she came down and told me. I knew he had not left the house; so I put on a wrapper and went up myself to his room. After knocking on the door once or twice without receiving any reply, I opened the door and went in. I saw at once that he was dead, but had no idea of the cause, for I did not at first see the revolver lying on the ground. I went down and told his aunt, who asked me to take un some brandy or water and try to make him swallow it, if there was any life left in him. I did so, and then puling down the bed-clothes I saw the wound in his breast and caught sight of the revolver on the floor.

"What led him to commit such an awful act I cannot possibly imagine; but I suppose it must have been a sudden fit of the insanity which runs in his family. He was not accustomed to the use of a revolver in his life. We telegraphed for Miss Fields, who arrived in the atternoon, and whom I met at the gate. I told her at once of the loss she had sustained and the manner of Frederick's death and she bore up wonderfully well, and is at present in the house.

"The only occasion on which a burglar ever attempted to break in here was some years ago, when John was alive. Frederick was not in the house at the time, and the man, when he heard John calling to him, ran away and disappeared without being seen." porter she said :
"There was nothing at all unusual in Frederick"

It was stated by all the relatives that there nothing whatever which should have led the young man to the commission of his fatal act, as his affairs were in good order and an exceptionally bright future lay before him. The funeral will take place at the house to-day at 1 o'clock.

EXPRESSING GRATITUDE TO MR. KINTZING—THE LAWYER'S VISIT TO ALBANY.

Edward Hovey, the migrierer, whose sentence of death was to be fulfilled to-day, but who was respited by the Governor on Wednesday, passed yesterday in company with his wife and sister in one of the corridors of the Tombs. Early in the morning he was visited by his lawyer, Mr. Kintzing, who told him the manner in which he had been saved from death, and Hovey repeatedly expressed his gratituse for the reprieval for which he had not dared to hope. He thauked Sheriff Davidson for his intercession in his behalf, and seemed to look forward to the date when his respite expires with more hope of an ultimate mitigation of his sentence than he has yet shown.

Mr. Kintzing, in describing his visit to the Governor sand: "Accompanied by Sheriff Davidson, I called at the Capitol at noon on Wednesday, and was immediately introduced to Mr. Cleveland. I told him about the decision of the General Term and the advice of Justice Davis, and Mr. Davidson called his attention to the position in which he would be placed should Hovey be hanged and the Court of Appeals order a new trial. The Governor asked us to return at 3 o'clock, when he would tell us his decision. At that hour we again called, and Mr. Cleveland said that he had given the subject careful consideration, and concluded that as the question of new evidence was pertinent and one that should be settled, a respite was necessary to enable history's connect to present his case to the Court of Appeals on October I. The Sheriff sent word to Under-Sheriff Stevens and the death-watch was dismissed.

"The first question that will be considered by the Court will be the appeal from the order of the General Term of the Supreme Court sustaining the General Term of the Supreme Court sustaining the

We shall show that we have newly-discovered evidence, and if the Court consents to hear us the most important step will be gained. We will then argue the case on its merits and apply for a new trail in the lower courts. The history of Hovey's case has been remarkable. He was sentenced to death in September, 1882, his execution being fixed for November 17 of that year. Hovey was again brought before the Suprem us. Hovey was again brought before the Supreme Court and was re-sentenced to be hanged on July 27. We then demanded a new trial on the requirements of the new Code, and argued before Justice D nohus on the grounds of new evidence. He refused to grant a new trial, and we took it to the General Term, which decided to sustain Justice Donohue's decision. Our next step you know. What we shall do if the Court of Appeals also decides against us will only be determined when such a misfortune takes place."

SUMMARY PUNISHMENT OF RUFFIANS.

Five young ruffians stole a keg of beer from Eugene Gesteyger's liquor store, at No. 239 East Forty-fourth-st., on Wednesday night, and assaulted the proprietor and his brother for remonstrating with them. They were proceeding to smarth the windows with stones, when Officer Buckley, of the Nineteenth Precinct, appeared and used his club with effect, after which he arrested the offenders. They gave their names as Patrick Byron, James Doyle, William Wright, Edward Morao and Patrick Henevan, and were held each in $500 bonds in the Yorkville Police Court, yesterday, to keep the peace for six months.

A CLOUD OF FLEAS ON BROADWAY.

A CLOUD OF FLEAS ON BROADWAY.

A well-known New-York print collector and dealer was standing with another gentleman at the open window of his office on Broadway yesterday, when one of them noticed something jumping and hopping about his clothing. In a second or two both men found themselves enveloped in a cloud of fleas, which seemed to come through the open window. A simultaneous rush was made for the passage outside, and whisk-brooms being produced, the impertinent intruders were brushed off in thousands. They seemed sluggish and averse to induige the playful activity dear to the heart of the healthy and conscientious flea. The office is situated in an upper story, and no one else in the neighborhood received a like visitation.

The Commissioner of City Works has decided that after this week the farmer's wagons which have been allowed to stand in Fulton-st., near the ferry, must stand in Washington ave., near the Wallabout Canal. The change is believed to be in the interest of the proposed Wallabou: Market.

An opinion was given to the Kings County Board of Supervisors vesterday by John A. Meyenborg, counsel of the board, in regard to the validity of the law passed by the last Legislature giving the control of the construction and repairs of armories to the new Military Commission of Kings County. The opinion held that the law gave to the Commission power to create unlimited debts, to pay which taxes must be levied upon the county, thus really giving the Commission power to impose taxes. This was clearly unconstitutional, for the power to giving the Commission power to impose taxes. This was clearly unconstitutional, for the power to impose taxes could not be taken from the Board of Supervisors. To test the validity of the law the Board voted to instruct the Military Committee of the Board to do some repairing asked for by the armorer of the 13th Regiment.

JERSEY CITY. Receiver Washington B. Williams, of the City Bank, has filed bills in chancery in his suits to recover the unpaid 50 per cent of the stock and to compel all the stockholders to refund the dividends which have been paid to them since July, 1876. The books show that at that time the bank had censed to be a paying institution and that the dividends were paid out of the paid up capital.
